

Connect with the conference community...

Volunteer at ISTE 2010!

Why Volunteer?

- Meet and greet educators from all over the world who share your passion.
- Get involved behind the scenes.
- Provide a valuable service to ISTE and your fellow attendees.
- Further your professional network and make new friends.
- Enjoy special volunteers-only activities and events.
- Receive a free ISTE 2010 T-shirt!
- Give a little or a lot; volunteer shifts are 3-hour blocks.

Select a task that suits you.

Want to assist people and help them navigate?

- Volunteer to staff an Ask Me station.

Know the Denver area well and enjoy supporting newcomers?

- Bring your love of the area to the ISTE 2010 Information Booth and help people get the most out of their Denver experience.

Are you a dyed-in-the-wool techie?

- Join the volunteer tech team by staffing a Doctor Is In station or a Bring Your Own Laptop (BYOL) session.

Have good facilitation and hosting skills?

- Join the sessions team to assist with various sessions, or the relations team to help with Presenters' World or the Press Room.

Not so much a "people person"?

- We have physical activities as well, including bag stuffing and seat drops.

Good at sales or know a lot about ISTE?

- Work at ISTE Central—membership, bookstore, and souvenir hub.

Just complete the online signup and select your preferred area of interest. The Volunteer Committee will contact you in early 2010 with specific dates and times.

ISTE 2010, formerly the National Educational Computing Conference (NECC), is hosted by the International Society for Technology in Education in cooperation with Technology in Education (TIE) Colorado.

ISTE depends on the help of hundreds of volunteers to ensure the success of its annual conference.

We can't do it without you!

Questions? Contact Daniel Arkin, volunteer coordinator, at Conf-Volunteers@iste.org.

Don't miss out on a special conference experience.

Be an ISTE 2010 volunteer!

www.iste.org/conference/volunteer